"A name that guarantees excellence"

The Comedian Within...

Danny strolls up to the microphone with the casualness of walking into his house. He nods his head to acknowledge the crowd and he utters, "You Gotta ain't ya". I am a green comedian, environmentally friendly, I recycle ever other buggers gag's ... but only better", he tells the crowd in understated fashion.

"If you are easily offended, I suggest you leave right now because it ain't going to be your night" "The audience laughs and responds immediately. Within seconds of his arrival on stage, he has captured the crowd and settled them into an atmosphere of comfortableness. ..Danny has set the tone. For the rest of his spot, Danny rattles off joke after joke, one liner after one liner for his attentive audience. Moving from subject to subject, race to race his coolness belies the tangential state of topics..... Sex, Race, Gender, The wife, the mother-in-law, police and just about every subject is covered that would offend the politically correct of this planet. After leaving school, Danny served HMS Excellent, Beales the Butchers and a Unigate milkman, played drum's in various bands where he earned sod all. He then proceeded to utilize that education by pursuing a career in stand-up comedy. Danny learnt his trade by fronting his world infamous act "The Oddballs" well known for appearing totally naked apart from a couple of balloons and the odd sock. The hardest thing was separating himself from the security blanket of The Oddballs, having an act behind him that he could call on if it got tough out there.

"Danny - A brilliant Comedian
" Jim Davidson, Wimbledon Theatre.
