

The High Society Magician

Having been invited to perform at Buckingham Palace, for Celebrities, Blue Chip companies and on Television, you can rest assured that when you book John you are booking a world-class performer.

Magician & Mindreader

Close-Up Magic

"Coins, rings, watches, phones all seem to do very strange things in John's hands."

A specialist in contemporary tableside and mingling entertainment, John blends traditional sleight of hand with fascinating yet subtle psychological techniques.

Performed for individuals and small groups, magic is the ideal way to bring your guests together in shared laughter and surprise.

As a recent client said "This stuff just has to be seen to be believed."

What John offers is the very latest in magical entertainment that will have your guests talking about your event for years to come.

A strolling magician is the ideal form of entertainment, to create wonder and amazement, because the magic is performed for your guests' right in front of their eyes, or in their own hands!

Mind Reading

A rare and unusual act to find, John brings a new dimension to tableside entertainment

John has assisted Paul McKenna PhD and Dr Richard Bandler to teach N.L.P and Hypnosis to thousands of people from all over the world, mixing what he has learned there with his other skills, John knows more about mind games and psychological illusion than anyone you will ever meet.

As a mind reader, John makes no claims to have any psychic powers. The truth is that he actively 'claims' to have none, but instead his talents, which include revealing the thoughts of other people, predicting and influencing their actions and creating conditions where your guests are able to read each others minds, all stem from psychological techniques that John has finely honed, giving the impression of an active sixth sense, through the clever combination of the known five senses.

Next generation mind reading. Combining hypnotic language patterns and psychological techniques John will have you believe that he can hear your thoughts and see the images in your mind.

Elegantly passing from one table or group to the next leaving your guests speechless as he performs some of the most incredible demonstrations of direct mind reading that you will ever see. For those occasions when you want to add uniqueness to your party, John can join you after dinner or during dinner, to weave an enchanted spell over your guests.
